Change in management of operations at WANTED Technologies

Quebec, October 17, 2007 – WANTED Technologies Corp. (TSX-V: WAN) announces that Robert Lavigne, Vice President of Operations, has left Wanted Technologies to pursue personal interests. “Robert’s contributions over the last three years are most appreciated,” says Scott Burton, President & CEO.

“We will continue the automation of the report production and solution delivery processes to ensure Wanted is providing best in class services to its clients.”.

About WANTED Technologies Corporation

WANTED Technologies is a leading supplier of real-time sales and business intelligence solutions for the staffing and recruitment, real estate, and media classified advertising industries. Using its proprietary data mining, lead generation and CRM (Customer Relationship Management) integrated technologies, WANTED aggregates data from thousands of online job boards, real estate, newspapers and corporate Web sites in real time.

Currently, WANTED’s data is used to optimize sales and for the implementation of marketing strategies within classified ads departments of major media organizations as well as by staffing firms, advertising agencies and by human resources specialists.

WANTED is also the exclusive data provider for The Conference Board’s Help-Wanted Online Data Series™ a monthly economic indicator of job availability in the United States.
