WANTED Technologies welcomes The Chicago Tribune to its client roster

Montreal, April 24, 2006 - WANTED Technologies (TSX-V: WAN) announced today that The Chicago Tribune has taken the decision to choose Analytics, Wanted's latest generation Web-based recruitment advertising intelligence tool, for deployment within its classified ads sales department.

The use of WANTED's Analytics intelligence tool, will allow sales associates from The Chicago Tribune to gain real time access to online recruitment advertising data for any employer in the United-States.

"We are taking steps to ensure our competitive success in recruitment classifieds by implementing a strategic approach to sales," said Craig Besant, Vice President of Recruitment Advertising for the Chicago Tribune. "WANTED's Analytics application enables our sales teams to make more consultative calls and add value to existing customers," added Mr. Besant.

The classified ads sales team at the newspaper will use WANTED's web-based interactive dashboard, showing aggregated recruitment advertising activity across multiple online employment sites. Other Tribune Company affiliates have recognized the need to counteract increasing online competition have already opted for solutions offered by Wanted Technologies to help them be proactive in account management and sales prospecting.

About Tribune Company

TRIBUNE is one of the country's top media companies, operating businesses in publishing and broadcasting. It reaches more than 80 percent of U.S. households and is the only media organization with newspapers, television stations, and websites in the nation's top three markets. In publishing, Tribune operates 11 leading daily newspapers including the Los Angeles Times, Chicago Tribune and Newsday, plus a wide range of targeted publications such as Spanish-language Hoy. The company's broadcasting group operates 26 television stations, Superstation WGN on national cable, Chicago's WGN-AM and the Chicago Cubs baseball team. Popular news and information websites complement Tribune's print and broadcast properties and extend the company's nationwide audience.

About WANTED Technologies

WANTED Technologies has been collecting job posting content from thousands of web sites daily since 1997 and currently delivers market data to over 120 classified ad departments and online media portals. The Company's capacity to aggregate, sort and categorize content from varied online sources makes it possible to look at the job market on a macro level and gauge trends in recruitment advertising.

WANTED Technologies is also the exclusive data provider for The Conference Board's Help-Wanted Online Data Series (TM), a monthly indicator of job availability throughout the US.
