onTargetjobs Selects WANTED Tech's Analytics[®] to Increase Sales in Online Market Segments

Quebec City, Quebec – May 29, 2008. WANTED Technologies Corporation (TSX-V: WAN), a leader in sales and competitive intelligence solutions for media companies, announced today that it has signed a nationwide agreement with onTargetjobs Inc. WANTED's suite of business intelligence and sales lead solutions will help onTargetjobs focus its sales and marketing efforts in segments where it operates targeted, niche job boards.

onTargetJobs operates job boards for the biotechnology, pharmaceutical, hospitality, restaurant, healthcare, accounting and finance markets. onTargetjobs will deploy WANTED's competitive-intelligence Analytics[®] tool, and Market Share reports to increase sales productivity in each of these segments.

On a daily basis, WANTED's Tech's proprietary data acquisition technology collects detailed data on all businesses that are using online media such as job boards and job search engines. WANTED consolidates, stores and analyzes this information, segmenting it by occupation, geography and by industry category.

By segmenting its data this way, WANTED can provide each of onTargetJobs operating units with detailed competitive intelligence and sales leads specifically for the occupational or industrial category they serve.

"onTargetJobs has become a leader in the targeted, niche job board market by focusing on occupations and industries that have a high demand for recruiting services," said Bruce Murray, WANTED's President and CEO. "We are pleased that we can provide extremely detailed, targeted data by occupation, industry and geography to meet their needs in each of these segments."

About onTargetjobs Inc.
