

WANTED WEB LEADS™

▶ THE CHALLENGE AND THE SOLUTION

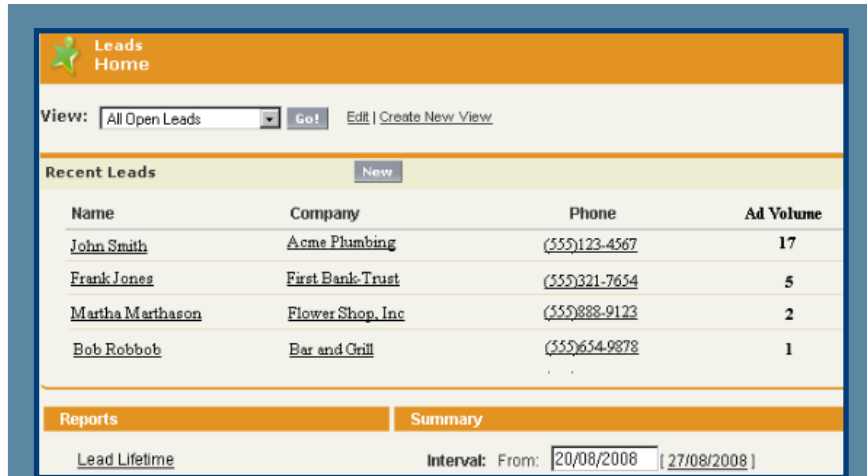

The challenge for sales organizations is to identify prospects who have an immediate need for their products or services. Media and Recruiting Services firms require accurate, timely information on companies that are spending money on recruitment advertising and services. The data found on online job boards is a goldmine for these firms: companies seeking to hire new employees post their requirements on online job boards hoping to solicit resumes and applications from qualified candidates.

WANTED uses powerful and proprietary web-crawling software to capture this job posting data on a weekly basis from hundreds of online job boards. This information is organized and stored in a data warehouse and distributed to individual sales representatives in a customized data feed each week.

WANTED Web Leads™ give sales representatives highly-targeted lists of sales opportunities that result in incremental sales. WANTED provides sales professionals access to the most timely information on the specific companies in their territories with the most urgent need for their services.
